INTENTIONAL BY DESIGN: CREATING SPACE FOR WHAT MATTERS MOST IN 2026

As we step out of what was an incredibly impactful December and 2025, and into 2026, we're reminded that progress isn't about doing more—it's about creating space for what matters most.

At Symphony Six, our focus this year is intention: designing our time, energy, and leadership so they align with purpose, clarity, and meaningful connection. This is a year not for added noise, but for thoughtful design.

Join us for the Symphony Six Forum on Thursday, January 22, for a practical, high-level conversation built around one simple truth:

Most leaders don't need more ambition—they need more margin.

This luncheon forum brings together trusted leaders who help executives:

- Delegate and systematize more effectively
- Create space for family, travel, rest, and personal interests
- Build daily rhythms that support clarity, consistency, and purpose

Our discussion will explore how intentional planning, better leverage of people and processes, and meaningful daily practices can reshape not just your calendar—but how you experience the year ahead. (RSVP REQUIRED)

We look forward to beginning 2026 together—focused, connected, and intentional.

THE WHY! FEATURED MEMBER TESTIMONIAL

Tiny Irwin

“The Private Equity Forum with Symphony 6 opened my eyes in a way I didn't expect. Beyond the relationships built, what I value most is the exposure to industries, thought leaders, and ideas you don't encounter in your normal lane. Before this forum, private equity felt like a distant world—theoretical at best. The conversations made it real and accessible.

The biggest mindset shift? Realizing you can actually buy a business, not just build one from scratch. I'd never seen myself as the guy who could purchase and operate an existing company. Now I can't un-see the opportunity. This forum challenged how I think, expanded what I believe is possible, and gave me confidence to explore paths I didn't know existed. That kind of exposure is priceless for founders committed to intentional growth.

If you're building something and want your thinking stretched in the best possible way, this is your tribe.
